
Is invading the way to go....?

Since we have begun to revive WAW I think the thing that works best for us is to invade other servers and gang up into one team. Seems to have worked so far.

I know Lee is going to sort out our server soon, this will give us the option to go on our server if there's enough of us on, the more people that's on the server the more that join. If there aren't many of us we can invade other servers and play as a team. I think we can hold our own again anyone as shown in the last few nights.
