Alright lads,

I know the summer months are generally a quiet time for us but we should set a night or a date where we all come together and have a game lately me and Daz have been playing BFBC2 which is a good game there is room for all of us in their and work as a team, Daz is usually the assaulter or sniper and at the moment im the medic reviving him when he's shot but we could all have a game of COD the next map pack is out soon I dont think Im stupid enough to buy it, BFBC2 has a map pack out in Nov which is free.

On the other hand a game Im looking forward to is GT5 it looks amazing and I have even started playing the Proluge even though I have ignored it for 18months, it looks amazing. As for the COD series dedi servers november will convince us to buy again but its all aimed at console gamers.

lets arrange a night where all us are on as a clan

Any news on BF1943 yet. I should be able to run that and it is amazing fun.

As for BFBC2, i just can't run it well enough to enjoy it, and MW2 is just pants.

I'm still playig loads of Guildwars at the mo. But as you say, summer is always quite, but i will be back on in the next few weeks.
